

Some Features of the World's News as Caught by the Photographers

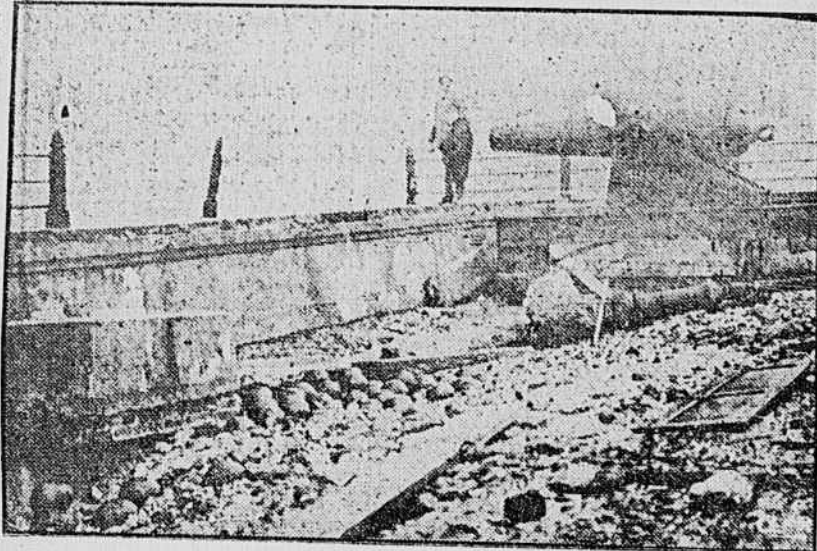

Roof ripped from a building and carried two miles by the hurricane which swept over Charleston, S. C.

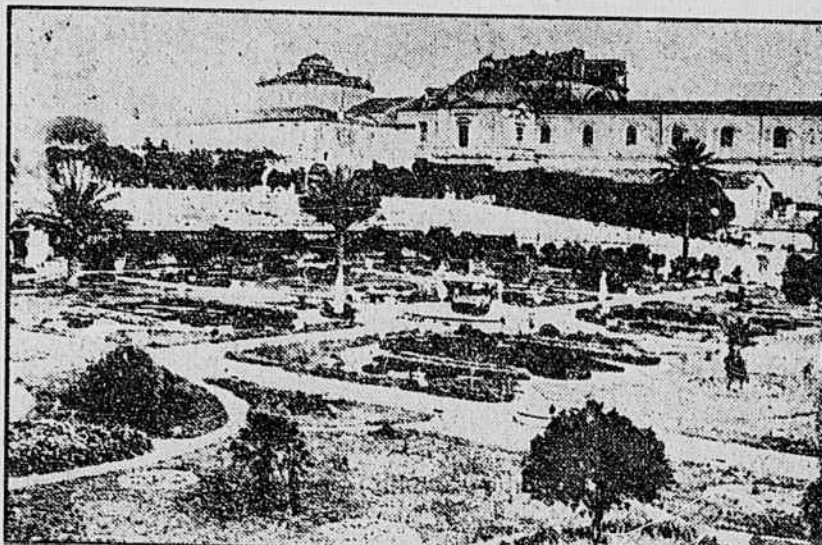

Soldiers practicing at Sea girl rifle tournament.

The famous old cruiser Olympia, which, it has been stated, will be sold to the Turkish government.

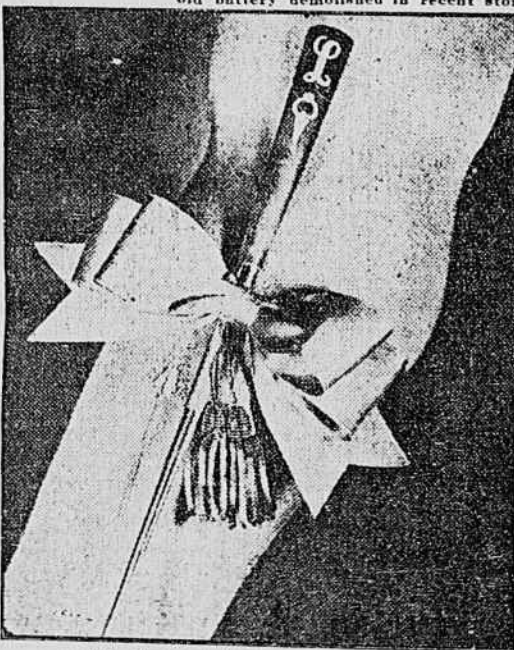

New sea wall at Charleston, S. C., completely wrecked by the waves, and an old battery demolished in recent storm.

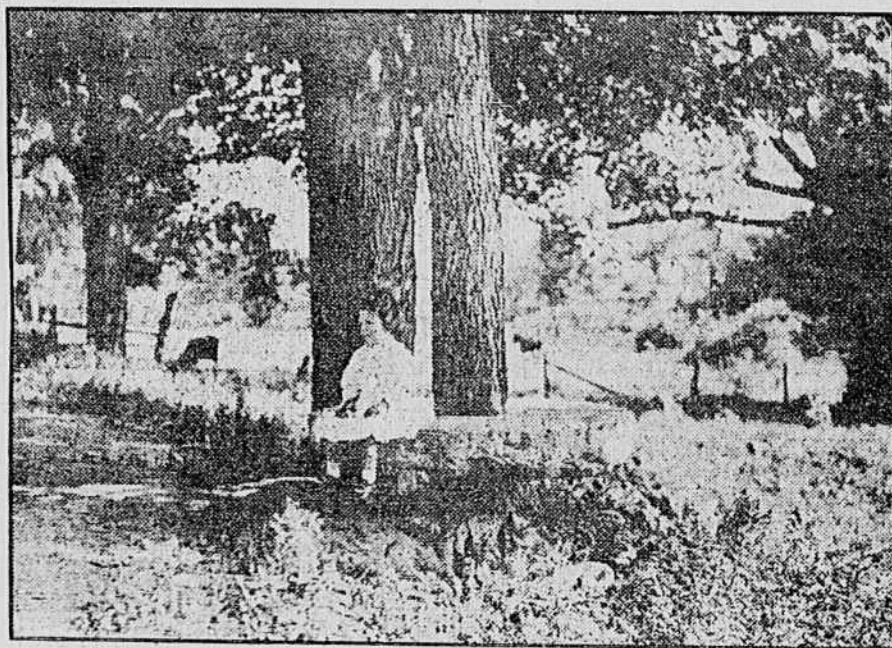

Vatican Gardens, where the Pope takes his exercise.

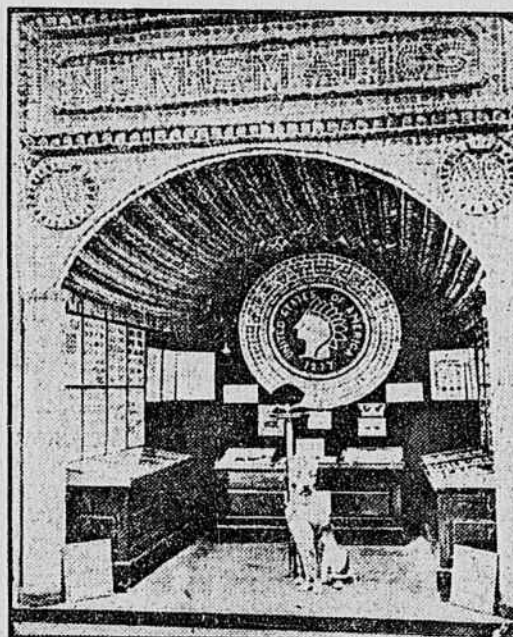

General view of the Vatican at Rome, where the Pope was confined during his recent illness.

The Parisian girl is furnishing herself with a weapon against the attentions of the unwelcome intruder on her peace. This weapon is a dagger, which is concealed on the leg beneath the skirt.

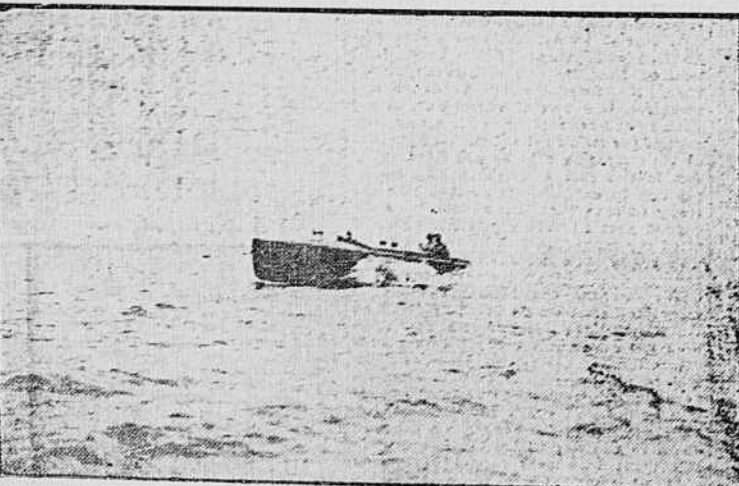

Many years ago a huge millstone that had been used at Sheldon's Mill, at South Dover, N. Y., was discarded. It lay on the ground for many years, until one day a slender plant poked its head through the hole in the centre of the stone. It continued to grow and filled the hole, and gradually lifted the stone from the ground, as shown in the picture.

At the annual convention of the Numismatic Association at Chicago are shown rare coins valued at more than $1,000,000. The booth shown by this picture is papered with banknotes to the amount of $10,000.

Steam yacht Aurora, on which the Australian Antarctic expedition will explore the regions around the South Pole.

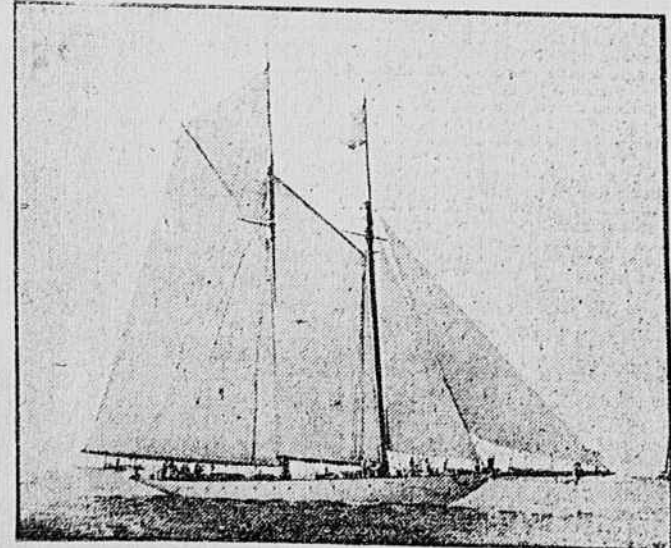

A fast little motor boat is the Peter Pan IV, which covered a thirty-mile course at Larchmont, N. Y., a few days ago in 1 hour 23 minutes and 26 seconds.

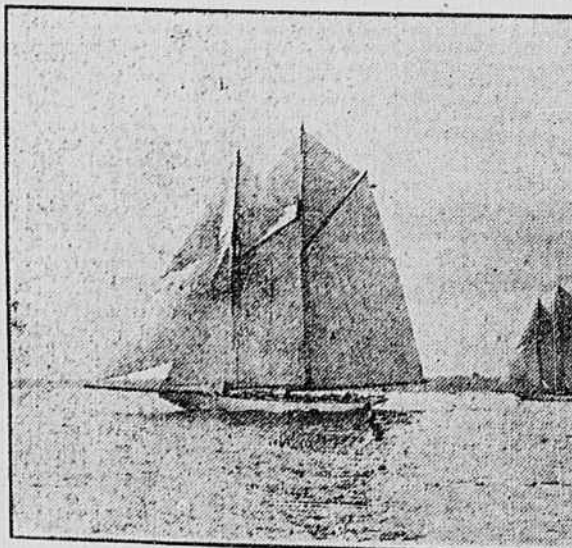

Frontier Day at Cheyenne, Wyo., which if the President so desires will be repeated for his benefit on October 4.

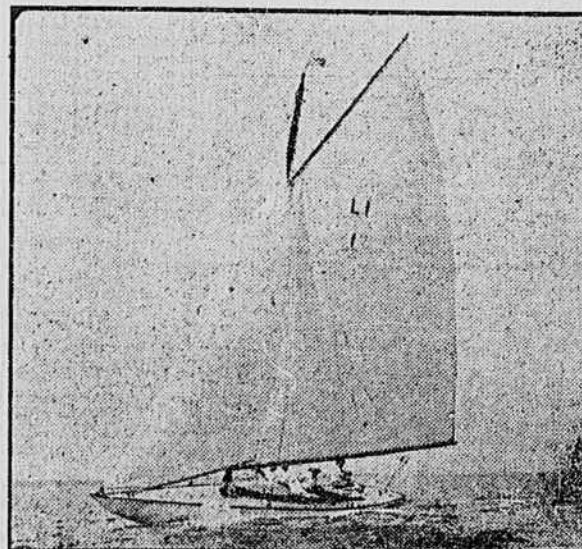

The annual conference of Governors of the United States will be held this year at Spring Lake, N. J., from September 12 to 26.

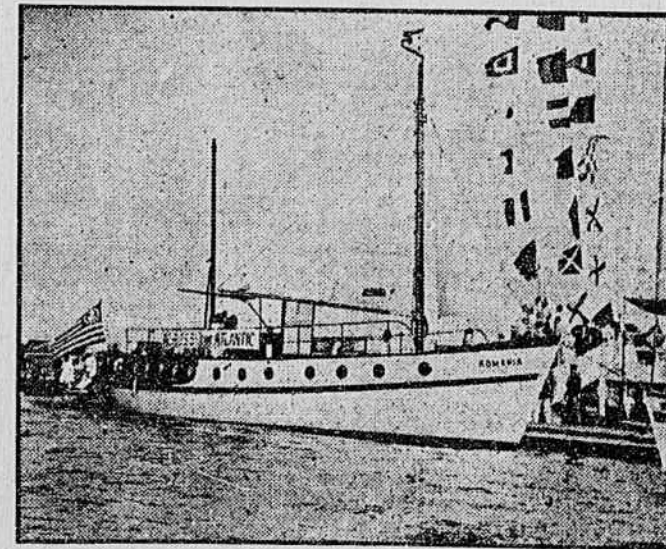

Schooner yacht Iroquois, winner of the commodore's cup in the schooner race of the cruise of the New York Yacht Club, August 8.

Schooner yacht Westward, one of America's most famous sailing vessels.

The newest type of racing yacht. It is known as a raceabout and is sleep-rigged, thirty-one feet long.

On Sunday, July 16, the auxiliary boat Romania, fifty feet long, started on a transatlantic voyage from New York.